

How task-based are textbooks in the 21st century?
Do they deliver what you need?

In this workshop we will look at various task-based activities and why they are important in upskilling today's learners. We will look at some examples from Pearson materials and show how they save you time. Participants will be able to request a sample copy.