

„Socio-Legal Perspectives in Migration Research: Potentials and Challenges”

09.05.2022, 11:30-18:30 (CEST)

Alte Mensa, University of Göttingen

Workshop organized by the Centre for Global Migration Studies, University of Göttingen &
the TemPro research project, University of Bergen and Christian Michelsen Institute (CMI)

The workshop is a cross-disciplinary coming together of legal and social science/anthropological perspectives. By inviting researchers with different experiences with interdisciplinary work into dialogue, we will together try to unpack the added value of a common perspective (“third space”) of law and social sciences (legal anthropology/ geography/ political science/ sociology). How can we find a common ground where both disciplinary knowledge practices can fruitfully enrich each other? What theoretical, conceptual, and practical challenges does interdisciplinarity raise, and how might we work through and with these challenges?

11:30 Welcome & Introduction

12:00 Conceptualizing and researching law

Plenary Discussion: How to look at law in the field of migration?

Discussants: Tobias Eule (Institute for Public Law, University of Bern), Max Pichl (Social Sciences, University of Kassel), Dana Schmalz (Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law, Heidelberg)

--- 13:30 LUNCH ---

14:30 Encountering the legal discipline from a legal anthropological perspective

Presentations followed by discussion.

Presenters: Beate Binder (Institute for European Ethnology, HU Berlin), Marry-Anne Karlsen (Centre for Women’s and Gender Research, University of Bergen)

--- 15:30 COFFEE BREAK ---

15:45 A cross-disciplinary coming together: Sharing experiences of ongoing research projects

Experiences from the research project: “Temporary protection as a durable solution? The 'return turn' in asylum policies in Europe (TemPro)”

Presenters: Jessica Schultz (TemPro, CMI, Bergen), Marry-Anne Karlsen (TemPro, University of Bergen), Kari Drangslund (TemPro, University of Bergen)

Proposal initiative: RTG „Mobility Rights in the global context of multiple crisis”

Presenter: Sabine Hess (Institute of Cultural Anthropology/ European Ethnology, University of Göttingen)

--- 16:45 BREAK ---

17:00 Knowledge Production

What kind of knowledges are emerging and how to use it?

Presenters: Bernd Kasperek (Institute for European Ethnology, HU Berlin), Itamar Man (Faculty of Law, Haifa University)

18:00 Wrap-Up

19:00 Dinner

The workshop is funded by: Meltzer Research Fund. The TemPro research project (funded by Norwegian Research Council). The Internationalisation Funds of the Faculty of Humanities of the University of Göttingen.