

Comments on the Award of a Doctoral Degree

- (1) Please note that you may only use your title (Ph.D. or Dr. rer. nat.) after the publication of the PhD thesis and receipt of the official doctoral diploma.
- (2) The dissertation has to be published at the latest one year after the thesis defense. In exceptional cases and upon written application, this deadline may be extended by max. two times for 6 months each. If you miss the deadline for publication you lose all rights to the conferral of the doctoral degree and to receive the diploma.
- (3) You are obliged to discuss the need for any further modifications to the dissertation with the members of your doctoral thesis advisory committee prior to publication.
- (4) Please note that it usually takes 3-5 weeks to issue the diploma.

Instructions regarding the Publication of the Dissertation

- a. The dissertation may be published after the revision certificate (see next page) is signed by the supervisor on behalf of the members of your doctoral thesis advisory committee. Please ask the SUB (or any other publishing house), which documents and how many hardcopies of your dissertation they require for publication.
- b. According to RerNat-O §21 V, you have to provide confirmation of the publication of your thesis to the GAUSS Office in one of the following formats:
 - a) in case of “regular” publication: the proof of publication on the SUB Göttingen document server
 - b) in case you publish the thesis as a book: three copies of the retail edition if a commercial; publishing house manages distribution to booksellers and a minimum edition of 100 copies is proven; one copy of the complete approved version must also be submitted.
- c. Submit the signed revision certificate and the publication certificate (originals!) to the GAUSS Office after having completed the publication procedure.
