

Will deal with the grand effort to reserve for women 33% seats in local level governance and disqualify them if they have had more than two children. It explores, on the basis of law suits filed against them, the experiences of women representatives in trying to circumvent the limiting condition of eligibility and ethical problems in the state's claim to empower women at the grass roots. Record keeping and evidence issues are brought forth in the process.

PROF. TULSI PATEL:
WOMEN'S AUTONOMY, AGENCY
AND THE TWO CHILD POLICY IN INDIA:
DILEMMA OF POLITICAL REPRESENTATION.

14.12.15 | 5 - 8 pm | CeMIS Board Room
CeMIS, Level 2, Waldweg 26, 37073 Göttingen