

Dear master students, to ensure that every student in International Economics and Development Economics can participate in at least one seminar in the summer semester, the sign-up for some of the seminars is centralized. This concerns the following seminars:

- Seminar Sustainable Development, Trade and Environment
- Trade-related and macroeconomic issues in Latin American policy making
- Controversies in Development Economics
- Social Assistance in Developing Countries
- Empirical Education Economics: Challenges and Solutions for Developing Countries
- Essentials of Global Health
- Economics of Crime
- Minds, Society and Behavior
- Topics in Urban Economics
- Advanced Topics in Urban Economics
- Current developments in central banking and capital markets*

If you would like to attend one or more of these seminars please fill this form between 1 and 27 March (the form will be active during that period only).

In case you would like to change your selection, you can fill the form again. Only the latest completed form will be regarded.

* Development Economics students please note that the seminar "Current developments in central banking and capital markets" counts as elective, all other seminars count as compulsory seminar or optional compulsory course.

Seminar slots will be allocated according to preferences and contested slots will be allocated in a lottery. Your chances of receiving your preferred seminar slot are not influenced by the number of seminars you include in the preference list.

You will be informed about your seminar slots between 28 March and 2 April. In case you DO NOT want to take the slot, please inform the lecturer immediately.

IMPORTANT: The process of allocating topics is organized by each lecturer individually (after assignment of slots). Processes and timeliness differ for each seminar. Please make sure to check after the assignment of slots.

Please share this information with your fellow students to ensure nobody interested in these seminars misses the deadline.

In case of any questions about the process please contact counseling-devecon@uni-goettingen.de.
