

Redesign of the Bachelor's programmes at the Faculty of Business and Economics

The Faculty of Business and Economics is redesigning the Bachelor's programme in Business Administration with effect from the 2026/2027 winter semester to prepare you specifically for new social and economic challenges. In light of digitalisation, sustainability and global transformation processes, course content and skills are being modernised to ensure a future-oriented and practice-oriented education.

The redesign will affect the existing examination and study regulations for all Bachelor's programmes at the Faculty of Business and Economics.

Students already enrolled may

- a) continue their studies under the old regulations up to and including the 2029 summer semester (subject to transitional provisions) or
- b) switch to the new regulations (subject to transfer provisions).

We will provide you with comprehensive information on all changes in due course. In addition, the Faculty will offer detailed information sessions (in German).

Students who are already enrolled can find information on the course structure under the current regulations on this website: <https://uni-goettingen.de/en/705859.html>

For students commencing their studies at the Faculty of Business and Economics in the 2026/2027 winter semester, the new examination and study regulations, which come into force in the 2026/2027 winter semester, will apply. Information on the course structure under the new regulations can be found on this website: <https://www.uni-goettingen.de/en/23191.html>
