

How can we govern and be governed?

Interdisciplinary Lecture Series
Tuesdays 4–6 p.m., OEC 0.I69

23.10.2018

Simon Fink

Department for Political Science, Göttingen:

How do we want to govern?

30.10.2018

Levke Aduda

Department for Political Science, Göttingen:

Third-Party Conflict Management:

Mediation in Intrastate Conflicts

06.11.2018

Kirsten Sandrock

Department for English Philology, Göttingen:

Colonial Utopias/Dystopias

13.11.2018

Tobias Lenz

Department for Political Science, Göttingen:

The design of international organizations.

Why some international organizations are more authoritative than others

20.11.2018

Julia Martínez-Ariño

Department of the Comparative Study of Religion, Groningen:

Regulating religion from within?

Participatory governance of religious diversity in European cities

27.11.2018

Lars Klein

EMJMD Euroculture, Göttingen:

"Impetuous, adversarial, petty and ineffective".

Fashioning the White House under Trump

04.12.2018

Matthias Roick

*Department of Church History,
Göttingen:*

Between Ethics and Politics:

Virtue, Self-Government and

Governmental Power in Early Modern Europe

11.12.2018

Vincent Lindner

Institute of Sociology, Göttingen:

Take it or leave it!

Social Concertation and Social Pacts

in Europe during times of crises

18.12.2018

Karthikeyan Damodaran

Sociology Department, Edinburgh:

Caste, Class and Political Society

in Southern India

08.01.2019

Miriam Schäfer

*Center for Methods in Social Sciences,
Göttingen:*

Police Work in Practice.

Processes of Typification in the German Police

15.01.2019

Christina Gabbert

Institute of Social and Cultural Anthropology, Göttingen:

Land use governance in Ethiopia

www.uni-goettingen.de/euroculture