

Podcast miniseries

with Nicole Viktoria Przytulla
Ayla Satilmis
Raewyn Connell

THE JUST UNIVERSITY

visions of a good and diverse academia

All equally different?! - Diversity in theory and practice

Podcast miniseries "The just university. Visions of a good and diverse academia"

What does a just university look like? How do we want to learn, research and work? What does a university need in order to be a welcoming place for students, academics and staff with different biographies and experiences? How can we imagine a fair and democratic university without discrimination? And how can a university enable emancipatory teaching and knowledge production?

We interviewed three experts about these questions:

- Dr. Nicole Viktoria Przytulla, German Institute for Human Rights
- Ayla Satilmis, University of Bremen
- Prof. Raewyn Connell, University of Sydney

<https://www.uni-goettingen.de/en/484533.html>

Episode 1: Eine Frage der Existenz: Utopie einer Hochschule ohne Behinderung mit Nicole Viktoria Przytulla (in German)

Episode 2: „Uni, öffne Dich!“ – Denkanstöße für eine demokratische Hochschule mit Ayla Satilmis (in German)

Episode 3: The Good University with Prof. Raewyn Connell

The production took place within the framework of the event series "All equally different?! Diversity in theory and practice" from October to December 2022.

Available through and funded by:

